

To become a member of the National Poultry Improvement Plan (NPIP), the first step is to have a state inspector visit your facility and complete a flock agreement. After this step is completed, the inspector will provide you with contact information for Pullorum testers in the area. It is your responsibility to arrange with a tester to complete the initial whole flock test. All birds 4 months of age and older must be tested, up to a maximum of 300 birds. Any fees associated with testing are the producer's responsibility. Please note that the fees are set by the individual lay testers. After the flock agreement and initial test are completed, a member number will be generated via the NPIP National Database. A new member information sheet and membership card with your number to be used on official forms will be provided. To begin enrollment, please complete the following fillable PDF and submit it to the Bureau for processing.
